++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:

A wet night for most, clearing the west by dawn.

This Evening and Tonight:

Rain, heavy at times, will become widespread through the evening and night. The far west of Argyll may see some drier weather developing especially later, although the rain will give way to blustery showers in the west. Minimum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Monday:

Overnight cloud and rain clearing from the west in the morning. Then some sunny periods and occasional blustery showers. Feeling cooler than of late. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:

Dry start on Tuesday, turning wet through the day. Drier and brighter on Wednesday. Further rain spreading east for a time on Thursday.
